“God cannot express himself fully in any creature; and so he has produced many and diverse life forms, so that what one lacks in its expression of divine goodness may be compensated for by others; for goodness, which in God is single and undifferentiated, in creatures is refracted into a myriad hues of being.”

CREATION EVOLUTION & FAITH

John Feehan's profound insights into the beauty and wonder of the natural world have led him to become passionate about our responsibility as humans to care for our common home. He has written extensively on the natural and cultural heritage of the Irish landscape and on many broader aspects of environmental science and is a renowned environmental communicator. His book "The Singing Heart of The World" (Columba Press) and his more recent unpublished "Creation, Evolution and Faith: Reflections on the Presence of God in Creation" are hugely significant for anyone interested in exploring the nascent field of eco-spirituality, and in responding to Pope Francis' calls for dialogue between science and religion and for ecological conversion.

This three and a half day Conference will ponder the mystery of God in all of creation.
